February ~ Adieu to you all

Chairman's Message

Dear Readers,

A wave of sorrow runs within me as I realise that through this newsletter, this is my last communication to you in the capacity of CICASA Indore's Chairman. I fall short of words when I begin to speak of my first tenure as the CICASA Chairman! 2019-20 was undoubtedly a fabulous year, not only for me, but for Indore branch as a whole. When I think of everyone behind making this year a great one, I recollect efforts of so many people. A big thanks to all the respected Managing Committee Members, my colleagues, branch Staff and my dear CICASA team members. It wasn't me, it wasn't you, it was "us" who left no stone unturned in pursuit of success.

We organized a bunch of events in the past month. Beginning with a motivational seminar by Dr. Vivek Bindra, Asia's best leadership and CEO Coach, we further celebrated the 71st Republic day at ICAI Bhawan, Indore. We were honored to have Dr. Satyapal Singh Meena, IRS, as the guest for Republic day celebration. His contribution towards the development of Indian Rural areas is remarkable. Rank holders of CA Final, November 2019 were also felicitated on the occasion. Congratulations to all the Rank holders! I also congratulate New and young Chartered Accountants on clearing one of the toughest examination.

2019-20 shall be marked a year of massive activeness and enthusiasm in the history of CICASA Indore as our team established a benchmark by organizing 107 events in a span of less than a year!

Heartfelt thanks to all of you for being such great participants! Time to take your leave. But as it is said, every ending marks a new beginning! So get yourselves ready for another beautiful year!

*Wishing you all best of luck!
Adieu my friends!*

*Regards,
CA Ankush Jain
Chairman, CICASA Indore.*

Editorial Boards Message

Dear Readers,

In the words of E.L. Doctorow, "Writing is an exploration. You start from nothing and learn as you go." We second the saying, as the content providers of this journal definitely started from nothing but their continuous learning rendered quality to this Journal's content. "The Echo" has provided space to budding writers for exhibiting their knowledge, inspiring and motivational thoughts and their worthy opinions which arose readers' interest. We've been working on "The Echo" to bring the best material for reading.

This Newsletter is the last one of our tenure! Following the pattern, it has been divided into 3 sections: The first one being "Knowledge Corner", second, "The Speaking Souls" and the third one gives you glimpses of the events that took place in the preceding month. It is rightly said that, "Reading is to the mind what exercise is to the body!"

"Thank you all for being excellent readers.

Hope you all enjoy reading this version of "The Echo" more than you enjoyed reading the previous ones.

Happy Reading, today, tomorrow and forever.

Regards,

Editorial Board

INDIAN PARTNERSHIP ACT

YASH SANKWA
CRO 0624476

According to the Indian Partnership Act, 1932 :
“Partnership is the relation between persons who have agreed to share the profits of a business carried on by all or any of them acting for all.”

The Act also explains that persons who have entered into partnership with one another are individually called “partners” and collectively “a firm”.

1. Existence of an agreement :

Partnership is the outcome of an agreement between two or more persons to carry on business. This agreement may be oral or in writing. The Partnership Act, 1932 (Section 5) clearly states that “the relation of partnership arises from contract and not from status.”

2. Existence of business:

Partnership is formed to carry on a business. The Partnership Act, 1932 [Section 2 (6)] states that a “Business” includes every trade, occupation, and profession. Business, of course, must be lawful.

3. Sharing of profits:

The purpose of partnership should be to earn profits and to share it. In the absence of any agreement, the partner should share profits (and losses as well) in equal proportions.

Here it is pertinent to quote the Act (Section 6) which talks of the 'mode of determining existence of partnership'. It says that sharing of profits is as essential condition, but not a conclusive proof, of the existence of partnership between partners. In the following cases, persons do share profits, but are not the partners:

- a) By a lender of money to person engaged or about to engage in any business.
- b) By a servant or agent as remuneration.
- c) By the widow or child of a deceased partner, as annuity {i.e., fixed periodical payment), or
- d) By a previous owner or part-owner of the business as consideration for the sale of the goodwill or share thereof, does not of itself make the receiver a partner with the persons carrying on the business.

Thus, in determining whether a group of persons is or is not a firm, whether a person is or is not a partner in a firm, regard shall be had to the real relation between the parties as shown by all relevant facts taken together, and not by profit sharing alone.

4. Agency relationship:

The partnership business may be carried on by all or any of them acting for all. Thus, the law of partnership is a branch of the law of Agency. To the outside public, each partner is a principal, while to the other partners he is an agent. It must, however, be noted that a partner must function within the limits of authority conferred on him.

5. Membership:

The minimum number of persons required to constitute a partnership is two. The Act, however, does not mention the upper limit. For this a recourse has to be taken to the Companies Act, 1956 [Section 11 (1) & (2)]. It states that the maximum number of persons is ten, in case of a banking business and twenty, in case of any other business.

6. Nature of liability:

The nature of liability of partners is the same as in case of sole proprietorship. The liability of partners is both individual and collective. The creditors have a right to recover the firm's debts from the private property of one or all partners, where firm's assets are insufficient.

7. Fusion of ownership and control:

In the eyes of law, the identity of partners is not different from the identity of partnership firm. As such, the right of management and control vests with the owners (i.e., partners).

8. Non-transferability of interest:

No partner can assign or transfer his partnership share to any other person so as to make him a partner in the business without the consent of all other partners.

9. Registration of firm:

Registration of a partnership firm is not compulsory under the Act. The only document or even an oral agreement among partners required is the 'partnership deed' to bring the partnership into existence.

Transfer of Shares by way of Gift

In general terms, the word transfer means a conveyance of property, especially stocks and shares, from one person to another. And one of the major features of a Company is 'Free Transferability of shares' subject to few restrictions on Private Companies prescribed under the Articles of Association of the Company.

Now, Transfer of Shares may be by way of Sale, Mortgage, Pledge, Gift, Death, Succession, Inheritance, Bankruptcy, etc.

1. What is a GIFT?

As per the provision of Section 122 of the Transfer of Property Act, 1882 defined "Gift" as the transfer of certain existing moveable or immovable property made voluntarily and without consideration, by one person, called the donor, to another, called the donee, and accepted by or on behalf of the donee.

2. How the transfer of movable property to effected by way of gift?

The provision of Section 123 of the Transfer of Property Act, 1882 prescribe that "For the purpose of making a gift of moveable property, the transfer may be effected either by a registered instrument signed as aforesaid or by delivery."

3. What are Shares?

As per the provision of Section 2 (84) of the Companies Act, 2013, "share" means a share in the share capital of a company and includes stock.

4. What is Share Capital?

The word share capital is defined under the provision of Section 43 (1) of the Companies Act, 2013 as 'The share capital of a company limited by shares shall be of two kinds, namely:

- a) equity share capital
 - i. with voting rights; or
 - ii. with differential rights as to dividend, voting or otherwise in accordance with such rules as may be prescribed; and
- b) preference share capital

5. Whether shares are movable property or immovable property?

To determine that shares are movable or immovable, we require to consider the following provisions:-

As per Section 2 (26) of the General Clause Act, 1897 "immovable property" shall include land, benefits to arise out of the land, and things attached to the earth, or permanently fastened to anything attached to the earth.

As per Section 2 (36) of the General Clause Act, 1897 "movable property" shall mean property of every description, except immovable property.

Further, the provision of Section 2(7) of the Sales of Goods Act, 1930 defines the term 'goods' as –

- i. every kind of moveable property other than actionable claims and money; and includes
- ii. stock and shares, growing crops, grass, and things attached to or forming part of the land which are agreed to be severed before sale or

under the contract of sale

In light of the above-stated provisions, we can conclude as the shares or share capital of the Company are movable property.

Procedure and Provisions :

As per the provisions of Sub Section (1) of Section 56 of the Companies Act 2013, a company shall not register a transfer of securities of the company, or the interest of a member in the company in the case of a company having no share capital, other than the transfer between persons both of whose names are entered as holders of a beneficial interest in the records of a depository, unless a proper instrument of transfer, in such form as may be prescribed, duly stamped, dated and executed by or on behalf of the transferor and the transferee and specifying the name, address and occupation, if any, of the transferee has been delivered to the company by the transferor or the transferee within a period of sixty days from the date of execution, along with the certificate relating to the securities, or if no such certificate is in existence, along with the letter of allotment of securities:

Provided that where the instrument of transfer has been lost or the instrument of transfer has not been delivered within the prescribed period, the company may register the transfer on such terms as to indemnity as the Board may think fit.

As per the provisions of Sub Section (4) of Section 56 of the Companies Act 2013, Every company shall, unless prohibited by any provision of law or any order of Court, Tribunal or other authority, deliver the certificates of all securities transferred –

- ▶ within a period of one month from the date of receipt by the company of the instrument of transfer under sub-section (1) or, as the case may be, of the intimation of transmission under sub-section (2), in the case of a transfer or transmission of securities; Contract Drafting Learn from best faculties in India Free 30 Hr online streaming with pendrive Learn more

Rule 11 of the Companies (Share Capital and Debentures) Rules, 2014

- ▶ An instrument of transfer of securities held in physical form shall be in Form SH-4 and every instrument of transfer with the date of its execution specified thereon shall be delivered to the company within sixty days from the date of such execution.

Procedure for transfer of shares by way of Gift

1. Preparation of Gift Deed for transfer of Equity share or Preference Shares;
2. Delivery of Gift Deed along with share certificate by Donor in favour of Donee;
3. Gift Deed along with share certificate should be accepted by or on behalf of Donee;

4. Execution of SH-4 and payment of an adequate amount of stamp duty;
5. Delivery of duly Stamped, dated and execute transfer documents by gift, by Donor or Donee to the Company within 60 days from the date of its execution;
6. The company should call the Board meeting, which is required to be convened within a period of 1 month from the receipt of transfer documents by way of Gift;
7. Convene the meeting and pass the Board Resolution for transfer of shares by way of Gift;
8. The company should deliver the certificate of share transfer within one month from the receipt by the Company of the transfer documents by gift.

Documents Required To Be Prepared

1. Gift deed;
2. Hand over the position of Share Certificate of the Company;
3. Execution of SH-4;
4. Board Resolution

Other Key Provisions Relating to the Transfer of Shares by Gift

1. What is the applicable stamp duty on transfer of shares?

Companies Act, 2013 requires that where share transfer form is delivered to the Board it should be duly stamped, with adequate value, and dated and cancelled as per section 12 of the Indian Stamp Act. Generally, the transferee is responsible for the payment of the stamp duty.

Being the transfer of Shares are subject to the central Stamp duty, accordingly, as per the provision of Article 62 (a), Schedule I of Indian Stamp Act, 1899, the transferee is required to pay stamp duty at the rate of Rs 0.25 for every Rs 100 of the value of the share. Special adhesive stamps bearing the word "share transfer" shall be used for stamping for share transfers.

2. How to determine the valuation of shares to affix stamps on the transfer deed happens?

In the case of listed companies, it is very easy to find out the price of the shares from the stock exchanges. However, in case of private companies, the value of the shares are difficult to obtain, in such cases, the value of the shares to determine the stamp duty, will be taken based on the average market value of the shares at the time of transfer or the agreed price between the seller and the buyer, whichever is higher. However, generally, the Articles of a private company might contain provisions which provide that the shares must be sold at a fair price determined by the directors or the company's auditors.

ENTREPRENEURSHIP AND JOB LIFE

A recent Randstad Workmonitor survey revealed that a whopping 83% of the Indian workforce dreams of being an entrepreneur – a figure that's substantially higher than the global average of 53%. As many as 56% people in the survey said they were considering leaving their current jobs to start their own business.

However, quitting your current position to break out on your own involves a certain amount of risks that not everyone can afford to take. Also, not everyone has the qualities you need to become a successful entrepreneur. That doesn't mean you have to give up on your dream, you just need to tweak it a little. Author Dan Schawbel, in an article, spoke about how the definition of an entrepreneur is evolving. “A major shift is taking place, replacing the typical definition of an entrepreneur – 'someone who starts a company' – with a newer definition, one based on the innate mindset of a person who sees opportunities and pursues them.”

To keep your entrepreneurial spirit alive and continue your job, you just need to cultivate the right mindset. Here's how you can be an “intrapreneur”, or someone who innovates, within an organization.

1. Recognize opportunities and grab them

A person with an entrepreneurial mindset is quick to spot or seek out opportunities. Their mind is attuned to seeing the promise in things and how they can make things better for themselves and others. How do you spot one? A good opportunity is one that sparks ideas, brings in energy, fits core values and carries its own momentum. Don Rainey, in an article in Business Insider, offers a tip: “The single most powerful question you must ask yourself about an opportunity is related to timing. Is right now the right time for this idea? There are a lot of great ideas that don't become great opportunities until the time is right for them.”

At work: Look for an opportunity that lets you conceptualize and plan things from scratch – a new project or an important presentation – and ask to take charge.

2. Get comfortable with risk

Risk-taking is an inevitable part of the entrepreneurial journey. So it's important to learn to weigh/ assess risk and become comfortable with it. It may sound intimidating, but taking a risk now and then is what brings big rewards. But before you make the leap, find out what you are getting into. By doing your research, you'll gain confidence in your decision-making process as well as your ability to see things through.

At work: Focus on what could go wrong and have a Plan B in place, just in case.

3. Work in the present, plan for the future

Most entrepreneurs tend to be self-starters, think about what's next and take ownership of outcomes. Setting goals and aiming for achievements comes naturally to them. But while they work on projects with an eye on the short term, they envisage prospects over the long term. Long-term vision is one of the keys to good leadership, and is an essential ingredient in the recipe for success.

At work: Begin by setting SMART (specific, measurable, achievable, relevant and time bound) weekly goals for yourself and your team, and hold everyone accountable by asking for weekly updates.

4. Put your POV across

Entrepreneurship doesn't just involve starting up or managing something. Asking questions, giving ideas and sparking conversations that can shift your organization's point of view when it comes to a project or decision can showcase your independent spirit and analytical skills. If you're not comfortable speaking up, Meredith Fineman, in Harvard Business Review, highlights three ways you “can still cultivate an entrepreneurial attitude: having a deep network, not necessarily a wide one; working alongside an extroverted partner; and pacing yourself in situations when you are out and about”.

At work: Understand the level of entrepreneurship your organization encourages. Take your cues from how others act and what results and projects are praised.

5. Work on your skill set

You may be the best team player on the job, but that doesn't say much for your entrepreneurial mindset. Most entrepreneurs tend to be creative problem solvers, and apply unconventional tools and approaches to existing challenges. Their analysis and assessment skills let them see challenges, opportunities and results when faced with any situation. That said, they expect change and are flexible and adaptable – this is essential when facing setbacks, obstacles or new scenarios.

Tip: If you aren't sure your skills are up to the mark, look for a mentor and attach yourself firmly to him/her to get on the entrepreneurial track.

After all, if opportunity doesn't knock, you need to build a door. So think like an entrepreneur; dream big for your career!
